Violet Class step back in time with a WWII workshop at Porthcurno Telegraph Museum

Last Monday, Violet Class visited Porthcurno Telegraph Museum to immerse themselves in WW2 history. They learned about the role the local area played in the war and discovered secret tunnels and escape routes used by workers in the telegraph offices. Oh, and there was just a little bit of dressing up to boot!

European Languages Day Cooking Workshop

Children from across Key Stage 2, were given the opportunity to take part in a European Languages cooking event with Miss Thomas-Kamali and Mrs Barr last week. Green Class made Italian Pizza, Blue Class made French Sablé Breton, Indigo Class made Spanish Magdalenas and in Violet Class they made a British Victoria Sponge.

Although Spanish is the language which we teach at Heamoor, by holding language events we are able to celebrate all the languages spoken around the world and promote a love of languages.
